

ABSTRACT

A portable grill having fold out wheels. A separate handle may also be provided that folds out from the grill so that a user may grasp the handle and pull the grill about on the wheels. The wheels may be moved from a first position in which they are stored underneath the grill to a second position in which they extend outward from the grill and are locked so that the grill may be transported with the wheels in this configuration. In an embodiment, when the wheels are in the second position, the wheels and an edge of the grill can support a grill at a tilted configuration so that a user may easily grasp the handle. In an embodiment, the handle extends upward and is located at a height so that it may be easily grasped by a user.